ACQUISITION AND PROCESSING INFORMATION

Accession Number

Provenance

Materials were deposited by person(s) unknown prior to 2015.

Processing information

Collection processed in 2017 by Ross Griffiths, Archivist. Items were placed into acid-free containers and organized into series.

Biographical and historical information

Diaries appear to have been compiled by groups of students and faculty as part of the State Normal School’s Apprenticeship program. The history of these documents is unclear, so this may not represent an exhaustive collection of all such diaries created at the institution.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

Each diary volume contains entries by a variety of different students, often concluding with their initials. Some entries indicate these books were passed around by students who wrote entries and also read the entries written by others. The first diary (1875) may have belonged to Rebecca Jones, Director of the Apprenticeship program. Entries are added idiosyncratically with many weeks sometimes elapsing between. Entries detail coursework, topics of lectures, details about field trips, and other academic endeavors as well as recreational activities, observations of weather, reflections on campus life, and copies of favorite poems or prose by notable authors. Some entries detail historical events including an account of Worcester’s 1876 Centennial 4th of July parade observed by students from the hilltop campus. Along with the initials of student contributors, these books include the names of faculty and guest lecturers and describe their itineraries. As a whole, the materials present both specific details of teaching and learning as well as a nuanced sense of campus life during Worcester State’s first decades.
ARRANGEMENT

The collection is arranged 2 series.
